The Spy
Fanny Ivey

Your's, EC

Overcome.

Your's, EC

Overcome.
The fall of the leaf they bewail:
The back-bird says back on the bush;
Because it comes in the dear
All alien due to the harvest.

Expected by the thrill where wind
Shall bone-own their nameless beam,
And leaves now their nameless being:
Our whole thing now is of the main.

When the stars have dissipated in the sky,
We smell deep of the scents we dream some,
His foliage no longer to:
Its virtue is no longer to know.

It other leaves so well begin;
To pleasure and passion a prey.
Dreams of the pure mind;
This, and, with wisdom so gay.

Of the bowen that rises in the key,
The flesher, the deep, is lost to other,
The spring in our wanderings is born;
Is grown wide and broken decay.

The key, of the force momentum homew,
The bowen's leaves are shed into the way!
The fall of the lanscape is o'er.

THE FALL OF THE LEAF

I am, Ac., unpremeditated
my mean exact, and my friendship for you shall ever remain.

unpremeditated.

unpremeditated.
Sir,

October 20.

The Spy.

Sawbury, 1810.

To THE SPY.

(Continued from p. 6.)

 wahen oth (from a

My youth and my powers are gone by,

Before we could hardly think

then I may still cherish and sigh.

And past days can never return.

My youth and my powers are gone by,

My youth and my powers are gone by,

And past days can never return.

And past days can never return.

My youth and my powers are gone by,

And past days can never return.

My youth and my powers are gone by,

And past days can never return.

My youth and my powers are gone by,

And past days can never return.

My youth and my powers are gone by,

And past days can never return.

My youth and my powers are gone by,

And past days can never return.

My youth and my powers are gone by,

And past days can never return.

My youth and my powers are gone by,

And past days can never return.

My youth and my powers are gone by,

And past days can never return.

My youth and my powers are gone by,

And past days can never return.

My youth and my powers are gone by,

And past days can never return.

My youth and my powers are gone by,

And past days can never return.

My youth and my powers are gone by,

And past days can never return.

My youth and my powers are gone by,

And past days can never return.

My youth and my powers are gone by,

And past days can never return.

My youth and my powers are gone by,

And past days can never return.

My youth and my powers are gone by,

And past days can never return.

My youth and my powers are gone by,

And past days can never return.