Rethinking Inequalities and Differences in Medicine

April 29–May 1, 2005
Nashville, Tennessee
An interdisciplinary conference, sponsored by the Robert Penn Warren Center for the Humanities, the Center for Medicine, Health, and Society, and the Vanderbilt School of Medicine.

Scholars from multiple disciplines will share and discuss new approaches to disparities in health and health care and cultural differences that affect health-related behaviors and patients' interactions with the health-care system.

KEYNOTE SPEAKERS

David R. Williams, Ph.D., M.P.H, Harold W. Cruse Collegiate Professor of Sociology and Professor of Epidemiology, School of Public Health, University of Michigan

Medical anthropologist Vinh-Kim Nguyen, M.D., Ph.D, Associate Professor in the Faculty of Medicine, McGill University

The program and registration form can be found at: www.vanderbilt.edu/mhs/inequalities-Conference

Registration is required, but there is no charge.

For further information call 615-936-3597

VANDERBILT UNIVERSITY