

Josiah Royce Sesquicentennial Celebration

April 9-11, 2005
in Furman Hall

Organized by: The Josiah Royce Society
Hosted by: Vanderbilt University's Department of Philosophy

Plenary Sessions

Saturday, April 9

Furman Hall # 114

9-10: Frank Oppenheim, S.J. (Xavier University): "Royce and Inter-religious Dialogues."

10:15-11:15: Harvey Cormier (S.U.N.Y. at Stonybrook): "Royce, James, and Logic."

11:30-12:30: Jackie Kegley (California State University, Bakersfield): "Royce on Race: A Coherent Racial Identity is Essential to Genuine Individuals and Genuine Communities."

1:30-2:30: Bruce Wilshire (Rutgers University): "Charles Sherover's Book, From Kant and Royce to Heidegger."

Sunday, April 10

Furman Hall # 114

9-10: John Clendenning (California State University, Northridge): "The Royce-Mason Letters: An Early Instance of Philosophical Counseling."

10:15-11:15: Scott L. Pratt (University of Oregon): "'New Continents': The Future of Royce's Logic."

11:30-12:30: Griffin Trotter (Saint Louis University): "Royce as Bioethicist."

University Club of Nashville

8:00: John J. McDermott (Texas A&M University): "Address at the Banquet: Royce Alive and Well."

Monday, April 11

Sarratt Student Center # 189

9-10: Judith Green (Fordham University): "Enlightened Provincialism, Open-Ended Communities, and Loyalty-Loving Individuals: Royce's Progressive Prescription for Democratic Cultural Transformation."

10:15-11:15: Doug Anderson (Pennsylvania State University): "Individuals Ain't Ones: Who We Are in Royce's World."

11:30-12:30: Randall Auxier (Southern Illinois University, Carbondale): "Royce's Fictional Ontology."

CO-SPONSORS:

The Department of Philosophy
The Graduate School
The Center for Religion and Culture
The Center for the Americas
The Divinity School
The Robert Penn Warren Center for the Humanities
The Department of History and Social Studies