

The Robert Penn Warren Center for the Humanities

“Lustful Luther: Male Libido in the Writings of the Reformer”

4:10 pm on Wednesday, March 22, 2006
Buttrick 101

Reception to follow

Merry Wiesner-Hanks
History, University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee

Merry Wiesner-Hanks is professor of history at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee. She is co-editor of Sixteenth Century Journal and the author or editor of articles and books that have appeared in English, German, Italian, Spanish and Chinese. These include Women and Gender in Early Modern Europe, Christianity and Sexuality in the Early Modern World, and with Susan Karant-Nunn, Luther's Writings on Women: A Sourcebook. Her most recent book is for young adults and entitled, An Age of Voyages, 1350-1600. Currently she is working on a book of readings about sixteenth-century reformations in many world religions.

For more information call 343-6060. Sponsored by the Robert Penn Warren Center for the Humanities, Women's and Gender Studies Department, and the Classical Studies Department.