Women's Center News

Monday, February 16 @ 7:30pm, Sarratt Cinema

Eaten Alive performance

What: Come see the show that dares to reveal that eating disorders have little to do with eating. Performed by Eva Van Dok, Broadway actress and recovered anorexic/bulimic.

Who: This performance is co-sponsored by the Athletic Department and is free to the Vanderbilt and larger Nashville communities.

Contact Carleen.Britton@vanderbilt.edu for more information.

Tuesday, February 17 @ 4:30-5:15pm @ the Women's Center

Learn to Meditate

What: Meditation is a form of relaxation, prayer, centering and a great time out just for you. Come and learn the basic technique of mediation so that you can de-stress yourself the next time you need it! Local expert, Bliss Wood will be leading.

Who: This program is free and open to the Vanderbilt and larger Nashville community. For more information, contact Jennifer.Hackett@Vanderbilt.Edu

Wednesday, February 18 from 5:00 - 7:30pm @ Rand Dining Hall

Girl Scout Cookie Night!

What: In cooperation with Rand Dining Services, the cutest waitresses and future saleswomen are at Rand serving you dessert, Girl Scout style. If you like what you've had, come on out to the Promenade and buy some of their wares!

Who: Open to all. Dinner at Rand is ala carte, and the cookies with dinner are free! Contact Jennifer.Hackett@vanderbilt.edu for more info.

Friday - Sunday, February 20-22, on-campus location TBA

Hand in Hand Training

What: Hand in Hand trains students, staff, and faculty about the dynamics of violence against women and how to help students make informed decisions about services and options available to them related to dating/domestic violence, sexual assault, or stalking.

Who: This training is free and open to everyone. Space is limited. Contact Kathryn.W.Silverstein@Vanderbilt.Edu to register or to get more information.
