

West End Coach Updated to Match New West End Mural

Derek Mason Vows To Build Successful Program Brick by Brick

THIS JUST IN

LGBTQI and Women's Centers Join Forces for National Holiday

By: Almaz Mesghina
Likes Ladies

As they eagerly anticipate the March 8th holiday, student leaders of both the Women's and LGBTQI centers met on Monday to discuss celebratory plans for national We Hate Straight Men Day.

First observed in 1938, We Hate Straight Men Day has long since been a deep-rooted tradition in the rituals of early feminists and gays alike, who both agree that the true enemy is the average, heterosexual, domineering male.

"They denied us suffrage and they continue to deny homosexual matrimony," began Women's center representative Julie Prudence. "We've been wronged, and this holiday provides a wonderful opportunity for the oppressed to join together under one unifying and viscous animosity."

However, Vanderbilt's Women's Center and the Center for LGBTQI Life only recently began collaborating for the biggest event in their respective organizations. "We didn't realize that another organization hated straight males as much as we did," confessed LGBTQI president Armand Mitchell, "but now that we're collaborating, this'll be the best holiday ever."

The two organizations have already begun to lay out the events for the anticipated day of celebration, including picnics, outdoor activities, and live music, while keeping the values of the hateful holiday in mind.

"We removed anything related to the masculine, heteronormative enemy from our festivities," said Mitchell, "This includes hot dog wieners, ball-related games, games requiring competition of any sort, aggressive colors, and cargo shorts." "But we've also added Brittney and Madonna karaoke, postmodern furniture, nonstop screenings of Rent, and menstrual synchronization tents," admits Mitchell, "but my favorite has got to be the foreign adoption tent; they'll just eat that one up."

All these events, plus crowd favorites like imitating Beyoncé will take place on Alumni Lawn on Saturday, March 8th. Tickets will be priced at 70 cents to the dollar.

Sochi Olympics Opens Up to Reveal Another, Smaller Olympics Games Inside

By: Dan King
Sports Savior

Olympic fans were excited earlier this week when Russian President Vladimir Putin opened up the Sochi Olympic games to reveal another, smaller Olympic games that had been inside the whole time.

Fans and athletes alike cheered the discovery of the new games. According to the International Olympic Committee, this second iteration of the Olympics will feature slightly smaller versions of all events, as well as miniature copies of all athletes.

Russian Olympic Committee president Alexander Zhukov says that the smaller copy of the games reflects a deeply important aspect of Russian culture. Says Zhukov "For centuries, Russians have perfected the craft of nesting smaller versions of things inside larger versions of things. It was important to the ROC that we get to showcase this skill at the Sochi games."

At a press conference following the opening of the full sized games on Thursday, Zhukov went on to explain some of the differences viewers can expect to see in the new games. Zhukov told reporters that the smaller version of the luge is both "faster and more adorable" than the full size version, as "The smaller athletes slide quicker, plus their suits make them look like penguins sliding off an iceberg."

The new Olympics kicked off with their own opening ceremony taking place in an arena eighty percent the size of the arena hosting the closing ceremonies of the regular sized games. The opening ceremony, which took place on Sunday, featured small athletes from across the globe coming together as a sign of little, tiny, cute global unity.

Many in Sochi have begun to speculate as to whether the smaller, inner games will turn out to contain something else inside of them. In a press conference on Friday, Putin told reporters, "I don't know what's inside this one, my children. Maybe you should go ask your Babushka what comes next. Be careful with it, though...two hands, OK? We don't want them to break."

Spoken Word Poem to Highlight Social Injustices, Personal Struggles

By: Peter Linck
Poetry Prophet

According to reports following the most recent Vanderbilt Spoken Word meeting, poet and Vanderbilt junior Deja Thomas will soon debut a poem highlighting various modern social inequalities as well as her own personal trials and tribulations.

"I wanted to write a poem that touches topics that spoken word poems never address," said Thomas who went on to explain that the poem will underline issues like income inequality, sexism, racism, and homophobia. "But I also want to talk about things I've been through: my depression, my parents' rocky relationship, being told that I sound "white" when I talk, and the difficulties of college life."

The inspiration for the poem comes from Thomas's love of language and unique worldview. "Spoken word is my favorite way to express myself and the way I see things," she continued. "I've always been a big fan of spoken word and hip hop. That's why this poem has references to rap songs and famous poets like Gil Scott Heron, Saul Williams, and Sarah Kay." Thomas also noted that it was "hard to avoid the corrupting influence of the man" while writing the piece.

Thomas's roommate Blaine Jerkovich told The Slant that Thomas has been hard at work practicing the poem in their room. "She's been at it non-stop trying to memorize that thing. She's really getting good at the hand motions and not running out of breath," she told The Slant. Jerkovich also leaked that the poem features "inside jokes for people from [her] hometown" as well as "topical references to the Obama administration and the digital age."

Officers of Vanderbilt Spoken Word have voiced excitement for the upcoming poem. "Our poets all have their own unique style," said VSW vice president Jamal Jackson, "and we have faith that she will go hard. Lyrically."

Thomas is excited to share the poem at the next VSW meeting but is concerned she may not have it entirely memorized. "If I forget anything while spitting the poem," she added, "I know my fellow poets will snap until the words come back to me."

INSIDE THIS ISSUE

Rest	2
Ice	3
Compression	4-5
Elevation	6
Walk On It	7
Nope, Still Hurts	8

Boyfriend Still Hasn't Seen "Frozen" Yet

Phil Harmonic Retires After Conducting Thousandth Orchestra

FROM THE EDITOR

PETER LINCK

If there is one enduring legacy from my time at Vanderbilt, I hope that it is all of the slang my friends and I use to refer to various things on campus. Below is a comprehensive list of the nicknames I have for various Vandy things. I thought I would finally share the list with the greater Vanderbilt community. You may add these phrases to your personal lexicon, but please remember to give us credit where credit is due.

- Socket Rubs = Rocket Subs
- Worst Wok = Best Wok
- Wok of Shame = Bamboo Bistro
- Pizza Planet = Pi and Leaf ("Dank New Rand" is silly)
- Supper = Fourth meal
- Logan's Roadhead = Logan's Roadhouse
- The Pube = The Pub
- Jeff Shames = Chef James Bistro
- Garland and Calhoun are interchangeable
- The Gill = McGill Hall
- The noise Link makes when using his Up+B in Super Smash Brothers (surrRRAT!) = Sarratt
- Voop-dee is the correct pronunciation of "VUPD"
- Getting in trouble with VUPD when a police car is involved is "getting blue lit"
- If you use a Flex Meal, you're "hitting em with that flex"
- Buttrick = Ass Astley (think about it)
- Captain Kirkland = Chancellor Zeppos

Fucked Image

Shirtless Joe Jackson attends his fourteenth Winter Olympic Games.

Actually Inside This Issue

From the Editor: Slang.....2

Cake Fight!.....3

Poop.....3

Stocks4-5

AROUND THE LOOP: Worst thing.....6

Pac Sun.....7

TOP TEN: Do You Really Mean That?.....8

'The Wcislo Boy' Wins Over Audiences

By: Kayley Romick
Life Reporter

Vanderbilt University Theater put on its first production of the semester with a riveting production of 'The Wcislo Boy,' a British period drama that premiered in 1946.

As the curtain opens, Vanderbilt Student Dean Wcislo, played by Bobby Maynard, is accused of violating the Honor Code in Human Sexuality. Even though Wcislo faces immediate expulsion, Chancellor Nicholas Zeppos, portrayed with stunning accuracy by sophomore Stephen Chaffson, believes Dean Wcislo's claim of innocence and, with the help his friend and family solicitor, Martha Rivers Ingram, launches a concerted effort to clear Dean Wcislo's name.

Frankly, Dean Wcislo and his advocates successfully engage the most highly sought-after sorority girl on Frat Row at the time, Leila Behr, also known as The-Girl-Who-is-Always-Quoted-On-Overheard-at-Vanderbilt. Even after Behr convinces the Honor Counsel to poll the student body on whether or not to dismiss the case, Chancellor Zeppos remains skeptical of Behr's sincerity—perhaps due to her record of not recycling water bottles or eating Beta bananas. The Honor Counsel claims the proceedings would distract from seizing the Dance Marathon; but because students ignore electronic surveys, the proceedings continue.

At trial, Chancellor Zeppos is able to discredit much of the supposed evidence against Dean Wcislo. The Honor Counsel, embarrassed and presumably no longer confident of Dean Wcislo's guilt, abruptly withdraws all charges against him, proclaiming him entirely innocent. Unfortunately, the ordeal has depleted the money Dean Wcislo made from working Tortellini Tuesday, and he can no longer afford a Maymester in Barcelona or graduate from college debt-free. Meanwhile, Leila Behr submits her VUcept application but considers withdrawing when she finds out that totally boring professor from, like, the freaking math department may be her faculty VUcept partner. Chancellor Zeppos, on the other hand, has signed on for another year of VUcept. The play ends with a suggestion that Chancellor Zeppos and Leila Behr may end up VUcept partners.

Vanderbilt junior Bobby Maynard in full costume as 'The Wcislo Boy'

As for the accents, the entire cast tries its hand at emulating the accents typical of Vanderbilt students to incongruous effects.

Director Mark Weitz-Nathan orchestrated the memorable performance and congratulated the cast on "attracting more viewers over six nights than the Asian New Year Festival gets in one." The actress portraying Leila Behr, method actress W. K. Sydney, performed at her prime despite consuming five shots prior to the production. "I had to pre-game the show, because that's what my character would do," she told The Slant. Weitz-Nathan complimented her efforts saying, "W. K. is a truly dedicated thespian."

Be on the look out for the next VUT production, the musical 'Wilson Monkey Trial,' hitting Neely Auditorium in April.

MASTHEAD

The New York Times is The Slant of the North . . . since 1886.

188 Sarratt Student Center
2301 Vanderbilt Place
VU# 351504 Station B
Nashville, TN 37235

Phone (615) 322-2424
Fax (615) 322-3762
Website www.theslant.net

STAFF

- Editor-in-Chief Peter "Bitchslap" Linck
- Managing Editor Michael "Pimp-Hand" Hogue
- Copy Editors Those on staff who are literate
- Designers Eh, everyone helped
- Beauty Editor Qalieg Czromniczk
- Foreign Correspondent Edward Snowden
- Music Editor Papa Roach
- Biggest Swinging Dick on Campus Richard Tiberius McGee

Slantsketeers:

- Jack Rosenhilary
- Jason Arias
- Collier Bowling
- Nate Braman
- Kelley Hines
- David Johnson
- Lucia Lee
- Sam Mallick
- Julia Ordog
- Sophie To
- Sarah Vollman
- Sam Wild
- Sam Ottenberg
- Dante Thomas
- Christopher Xin
- James Cross
- Danny McClanahan
- Dan King
- Michael Greshko
- Almaz Mesghina
- Kevin Cyr
- Douglas Lee
- Max Herz
- Laura Mast
- Nick Sparkman
- Bryson Howard
- Kayley Romick
- Mary Beth Schatzman
- Grant Paton
- Owen Akeley
- Kelly Halom
- Charles Sanford
- Jackson Parker
- Sam Mulholland
- Brian Cooper
- Wesley Lyn

POLICIES

Back Issues

Back Issues can be ordered by sending $5.00 and a description of the issue desired (volume number and date, if possible) to the address above. Some issues are no longer available. For a back issue please e-mail backissues@theslant.net.

Subscriptions

Mail subscriptions available. $30.00/year or $20.00/semester. E-mail subscribe@theslant.net. Postmaster please send address changes to 2301 Vanderbilt Place, VU# 351504, Nashville, TN 37235-1669.

PHOTO CREDIT

All photographs were provided by McClatchy-Tribune and Wikimedia Commons

DISCLAIMERS

This publication is a work of humor, parody and satire. None of the subjects or writers are intended to represent real people, unless those people are public figures. You must be over 18 to read The Slant. This publication and the content thereof does not always reflect the opinions of Vanderbilt Student Communications, Inc. All stories and images are the properties of their respective owners. Each member of the Vanderbilt community is entitled to one copy of this publication; additional copies are five dollars each. If The Slant offends you, do not read it. Support our advertisers.

Copyright © 2013, The Slant. All rights reserved.

IN VANUM LABORAT QUI OMNIBUS
PLACERE CONTENTIT

Russia's Putin Scores Gold Medal with Flawless Execution of Political Dissidents

By: Nate Braman
Sports Reporter

In what is being hailed as an unparalleled display of grace and showmanship, Vladimir Putin has secured Russia a gold medal in the 2014 Sochi Winter Olympics for his dazzling execution of over two dozen political dissidents. Receiving an overall score of 9.6 for his performance, Putin broke Olympic records with a hauntingly beautiful show of force and form.

Putin was overcome as he took the Olympic podium following his Freestyle routine yesterday. As the State Anthem of the Russian Federation resounded throughout Fisht Olympic Stadium, Putin stood proud and victorious in front of the world. A single tear rolled down his cheek as he raised his iron fist triumphantly.

"I just can't believe it," a beaming Putin told NBC's Matt Lauer in a post-competition interview. "It's so great to see all the training and hard work come together like this. There are so many talented dictators masquerading as popularly elected leaders of federal semi-presidential republics in Sochi today. I'm lucky just to be here promoting the illusion of cooperation and diplomacy with them."

He contemplated the medal around his neck for a moment. "This one's for the little guy. I couldn't have done it without you disappearing."

Putin does not have long to enjoy his victory, however. In just under a week, Putin will again attempt to win gold for Russia: this time facing off against some of the stiffest competitors in the world for the Snowboard-Waterboard Biathlon.

Despite the acclaim Putin has received for his phenomenal execution, not everyone is pleased with the results of yesterday's competition. "He was okay, but I'm confident I deserved that medal," North Korean totalitarian Kim Jong Un told The Slant. "North Koreans would be so disappointed with me if they knew the difference between gold and silver."

Un was favored by many to win gold with an elaborate routine involving execution of political opponents using ballistic missiles, but slid to second when they failed to stick the landing.

Putin is thrilled after his mindblowing performance.

Bastard Confession

"Unfortunately, experimental verification of the second law of thermodynamics is not practicable, since it requires dismantling an organism into its component molecules, which would result in irreversible death."

-- Actual College Biochemistry Textbook

Steve Aoki Answers Students' Pleas to Have Cake Thrown at Their Faces

By: Collier Bowling
Patisserie in Training

The Vanderbilt Programming Board unanimously decided to have Steve Aoki headline the upcoming Rites of Spring music festival due to large student demand to have a cake thrown at their faces. From data compiled in the latest Quality of Life survey, Vanderbilt students said the "typical university experience" they feel like they are missing out the most on is being hit in the face with a cake. Student responses mentioning the desire to be hit in the face by a cake ranged from being full of anger to polite begging. The top comment mentioned in the survey was "I'd do anything to get hit in the face by a cake," being closely followed by responses like "I really feel like I'm missing out on herpes" and "I've never hooked up with a Pacific Islander." Citing incidences at Lipscomb and Belmont's co-sponsored annual Throwing Cake at Freshmen Festival, Vanderbilt students state they should have more cakes thrown at their faces.

"I heard that just last week some lucky Belmont kid got hit in the face by a Carvel ice-cream cake," Vanderbilt student Chuck Hunk said. "Heck, I would have even settled with getting hit by a cookie cake!"

Faced with the overwhelming student demand to be hit in the face with a cake, the Programming Board realized they had to have Steve Aoki headline Rites of Spring. Steve Aoki, however, does not treat his cake-throwing lightly. Describing how he became addicted to throwing cakes at his concerts, Aoki recently spoke at a Cakes Throwing Anonymous meeting. "I guess my condition is not really anonymous, since everyone knows I throw cakes at my concerts, but I still have a serious problem. Cake-throwing is an addiction that afflicts nearly 14% of Americans and it's something everyone should be aware of."

I command you to eat cake!

The Vanderbilt Programming Board released in a statement that it does not condone addictions of any kind, but due to student demand it has made an exception in this case. VPB insisted that Steve Aoki must throw cakes at students' faces in order to encourage a broad diversity of cake throwing at Vanderbilt. Steve Aoki agreed to headline Rites of Spring only after he was guaranteed admittance into Vanderbilt's prestigious center for Cake-Throwing Disorder. He hopes that after going through rehab at this center that he can finally return to living a normal life full of drugs, Ferrari racing, and weekends in the Maldives.

It looks like you're making The Slant. Would you like help?

- Get help with making The Slant
- Make The Slant without help
- Don't show me this message again

TFLVP: Texts From Last Vandy Party

(615): How do you think I maintain this positive demeanor if not through pharmacological intervention?

(316): I bet Sandra Day O'Connor gives great head.

(501): You think I'll get laid tonight?

(214): No.

(501): Why not?

(214): Don't make me answer that.

(817): I'm not saying that I drank 10 shots of Fireball and told [REDACTED] he could make a friendship bracelet with my pubes, but I'm not saying that didn't happen.

(944): I want the frats to play more Arcade Fire but I don't want to be that guy.

(615): What guy?

(944): Guy who wants to grind to the music of weird Canadians.

(615): Then request Neil Young.

(374): WHERE THE FUCK IS SHAWN JOHNSON I DON'T WANT EXCUSES I WANT ANSWERS

(672): Be right there bitch downing some study Jack while finishing my paper.

(541): I'm gonna do it.

(295): Do what?

(541): Propose to her.

(295): When?

(541): Tonight.

(295): She'll always remember that special Towers pregame.

Pooping Near Showers

How having showers and toilets in the same room creates problems

Chris Xin is a senior in the College of Arts and Science. He can be reached at don't.email.me@vanderbilt.edu there and stunk up the place. Never in my life have I had to deal with a bathroom that was as consistently saturated with the smell of a pooping man as the one on my floor.

I guess it wouldn't be so bad if I could avoid such a filthy place. But I can't, because that's where the showers are. So I end up bathing in filth. I'm walking into the bathroom to take a shower and I'm immediately hit with a wall of

Listen, bathroom stalls and showers should NOT be in the same place. And I'll tell ya why. I live in Tolman, and by God, those Tolman boys drop some real fuckin' smelly poops. Like, especially smelly for some reason. And it's all the time, too. I can guarantee that, within any 30-minute window over the course of the day, someone will be pooping or will have recently pooped in someone else's farts. I mean, whatever. Nothing new there. I don't even flinch anymore. But now I'm imagining the little particles of whatever it is that's making the farts smell bad (little floating pieces of poop, in my imagination at least) clinging onto my towel – indeed, the very towel I use to dry my just-washed body after a shower. Really, the battle has already been lost. But I continue anyway. I shower, and I get out and dry myself off, rubbing a stranger's microscopic little shits into my chest and hair. Fortunately, the smell of Pantene Pro-V is enough to mask the smell, giving the illusion of cleanliness. But the illusion is ephemeral, and reality quickly sets in as I pull back the curtain and step back into the sea of farts. Immediately I am swarmed with moles upon moles of fart particles, and within seconds they've clung to me, in my hair and in my mouth. It seems I have showered for naught. I may appear clean. I may even smell clean. But do I feel clean? Let me tell you something: I do not.

Whose idea was it to put showers and toilets in the same room? Who sat down and thought, "Hey, let's put toilets, where people excrete pure, unmitigated filth, in the same room as showers, where people clean themselves?" It simply doesn't make sense.

So, here's my solution: Put toilets and showers in separate rooms. Let the pooping poop, but for heaven's sake, let the clean be clean.

Dear The Hustler,

I wanted to congratulate you on your recent engagement to The Slant. I know how excited you have been about this, and I've always loved hearing you talk about how much you think you two are meant to be together. You know I will always support you in all of your decisions, regardless of whether or not you two choose to go through with this sudden choice of matrimony or not.

You are such an incredible person, and I have always wanted the best for you. You are intelligent, sharp, gorgeous, and hilarious. You have always said that The Slant is also smart, attractive, and actually really nice once you get to know him. I certainly hope that is true. I can do nothing but trust your judgment, because no matter how I personally feel about The Slant, the only thing that matters is that you are happy. I know we have our differences on what makes a person nice looking, or nice, or moderately intelligent, but as my mother always said, "That's why they make chocolate and vanilla!" I guess some people just think about choosing spouses in different ways, right?

Anyways, I am so excited for you as you take this new step in your life. I know a lot of people are putting pressure on you to do this, though, so don't think I am one of them. I've always thought that marriage was a silly concept regardless, so if you decide to back out I completely support you. Also, who says you have to be with someone to be happy? I don't. Or, who says your college boyfriend of three years has to be the person you spend the rest of your life with? I know a few people at Vanderbilt would probably disagree. So, you know, you have a lot of supporters no matter what you decide to do. Also, you can always take a little more time! This is a big decision and shouldn't be made lightly.

Finally, I would like to take the opportunity to apologize for all the times I called The Slant an asshole. Or a jerk. Or a motherfucking dickwad. Or...well, we all remember the other one. Those were some rough nights for me. I was going through a tough time, because I thought one of my closest friends was in a relationship with someone who was not good for them - not you of course; it's someone you don't know. Anyway, yeah, I think The Slant is fine and you will make headlines with how nice you are!

Love always, and looking forward to your happy future,

M

News Roundup: Click the Links for More

Michael Sam Dominates Interior Decorating Portion of NFL Combine

Vanderbilt Biology Professor: "Blending a cat will not get you tenure"

Kansas Passes New Law Banning Playing "Carry on my Wayward Son" Before First Encore

Slant Editors Frantically Scramble for Content

Area Man to Start Listening to Pink Floyd to Feign Good Music Taste

"Penultimate Drop Coffee Shop" to Open Next to "Last Drop," Will Close at 9 PM

["I can't believe Underwood \[REDACTED\]!" Says House of Cards Fan](#)

Sports Illustrated Swimsuit Edition Outsells New Yorker Swimsuit Edition for 38th Straight Year

12-Year Old Boy to "Spice up sex life" with Himself

The Slant's Bu

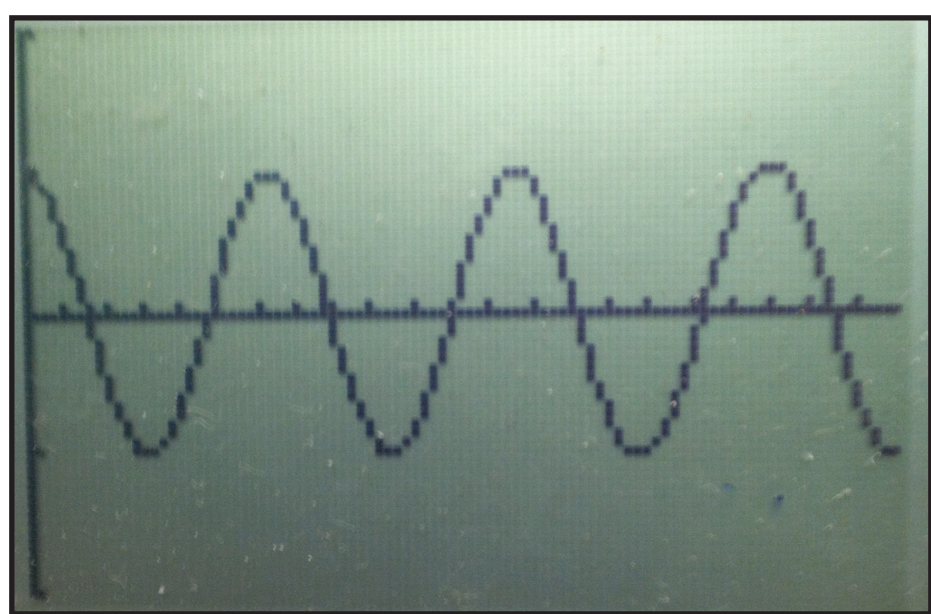

T&A 100 STOCKS

Stock (TICKER)	Low	High	Close
Porn (P)	23	24	But
The Way Back (WB)	34	36	Really
Double Trouble (DT)	96	100	What
Backdoor Bounty (BB)	88	107	The
American XXXpress (AX) or FedXXX	47	54	Fuck
Microcock (M)	103	114	Is
Golden Sacks (GS)	59	62	The
Facebucacci (FB)	67	67	Stock
	862	862	Market

Sick Nasdy Composite

Stock (TICKER)	Low	High	Close
Too Stoked (TS)	Who	You	69
X-Frames Glasses	Decided	Won't	69
Coka-Cola (CC)	To	Read	69
TJ to the Max (TM)	Put	Them	69
Psyched Mindreading (PM)	Numbers	Anyway	69
Dopeney (D)	In	So	69
	Columns	Whatever	69

Tits & Ass's 500-stock index

I see that you're still making The Slant. It looks like you're having some trouble there. Are you sure you don't need help?

It would be no inconvenience to me at all. I would love to help in any way I could.

- Yes, help me make The Slant
- No, continue making The Slant without help

Sick Nasdy Composite

Consumer Rates: Dots, Fruit, Blue Ghosts

007 Index

Bonds. James Bonds.

Fund Name (TICKER)	Low	High
Sean Connery (SC)	Never Say Never Again	Dr. No
George Lazenby (GL)	On Her Majesty's Secret Service	On Her Majesty's Secret Service
Roger Moore (RM)	A View to Kill	The Spy Who Loved Me
Timothy Dalton (TD)	License to Kill	The Living Daylights
Pierce Brosnan (PB)	The World is not Enough	GoldenEye
Daniel Craig (DC)	Quantum of Solace	Casino Royale

Business Section

Market Gauges

Crude Oil ↗ $102.75 +$0.09 Canola Oil ↗ $32.69 +$2.11 Fish Oil ↘ $48.77 -$0.05 Baby Oil ↗ $24.99 +$1.83 Flaxseed Oil ↘ $86.89 +/- $0.36

Dao Jones Industrial

Stock (TICKER)	Low	High	Close
Ying-Yanling (YY)	We	Tary	Puns
Eternity Spa (ES)	Promised	But	Please
Diety Dental (DD)	Biting	Now	Read
Profit & God (PG)	Satire	We	Every
AmaGong (AG)	And	Are	Word
Time Weary Carl (TWC)	Incisive	Just	On
Metalife (MET)	Social	Grasping	These
UnitedHealing (UH)	Commen	At	Pages

Other Indices

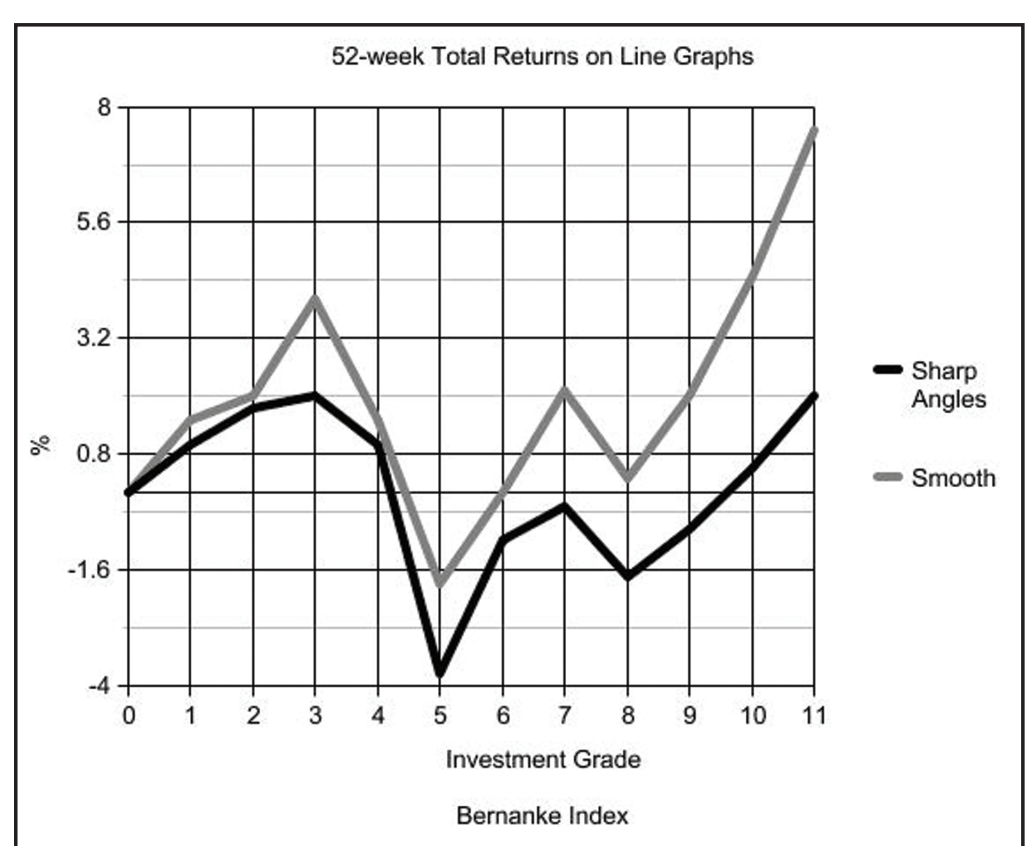

Index	1 House	With Hotel	Mortgage Value
Oriental Avenue	30	550	50
Boardwalk	200	2000	200
Marvin Gardens	120	1200	140
St. James Place	70	950	90
Virginia Avenue	60	900	80
Ventnor Avenue	110	1150	130

Index	1 Utility	2 Utilities	Mortgage Value
Water Works	4x dice	10x dice	75
Electric Company	4x dice	10x dice	75

Other Indices Index

Dao Jones Industrial Average

Only YOU can prevent bear markets.

Only YOU can prevent white capitalist subjugation.

Brother Mclaidalot's Sex Advice Column

Hey, looks like you're still struggling. Want some help? No? Fine, ignore me. I only live in a word processor. What could I possibly know about writing?

Dear Brother Mclaidalot,

While engaging in intimate activities with my significant other on this most recent Valentine's Day, I discovered the presence of a second testicle dangling next to the one that I already knew myself to possess. I have lived my entire life only believing I had one testicle, regardless of what secular sexual education teachers have told me, and now, I'm not sure what to believe. Is a second testicle normal? If not, what should I do?

Sincerely,
Questioning in Quantico

Dear Questioning,

First of all, my son, it is perfectly reasonable to question what you believe. We all do it from time to time. I personally question whether or not it is right and just for me to provide advice on how to attain the moist pussy as I often do. Of course, my faith wins out in the end, and I find the spirit to continue in my mission; but doubt is a natural part of life. Now, as regards your second testicle: by most accounts, that is in fact quite a normal occurrence. I myself have two testicles, so you may consider yourself in good company, my son. As I am attracted only to women and have not seen in person another man's genitals, I cannot be sure that we are not the only two men in the world with two testicles.

Additionally, I applaud you for celebrating the holy day of St. Valentine. As the good Lord said, "Be fruitful and multiply."

Yours in Christ,
Brother Mclaidalot

Porn Star Unsure What Different Parts of the Vagina are Called

By: Peter Linck

This past Saturday, accomplished adult film star Candy Sprayberry announced via her website that she does not know the names for the different parts of the female genitalia. The post, titled "Crotch Parts," outlines Sprayberry's ignorance of commonly known vocabulary like labia, clitoris, and urethra. "There's lots of folds and flaps," reads the blog post, "but I dunno what they're called cuz I'm not a doctor."

Sprayberry also said that her five year career in the industry has not helped her to learn anything new about the female anatomy despite daily contact with male and female reproductive organs. "To me it's just like 'A little lower baby' or 'Give it to me harder!' I don't need to know all that fancy mumbo jumbo, so I don't bother looking it up."

In an interview with TMZ the following morning, Sprayberry stated that in fact most adult film stars do not know the technical names for the parts of the vagina, penis, or even anus. When asked by an interviewer what parts of the vagina she does know, Sprayberry replied "Well at the top of my cunt is the happy button," presumably in reference to her clitoris. She concluded saying, "All I know is that the other actor fucks my pussy and sometimes it makes me cum really hard," referring to sexual intercourse and orgasms, respectively.

Candy Sprayberry shows off her self-described "big tits," slang for breasts or mammary glands.

Other porn stars have used social media to echo Sprayberry's sentiments. Veteran actor Rocky Bouncer posted to his Tumblr, "Gotta agree with Candy. The jizz comes out of the tip, and that's all I need to know." Randy Steel, one of the most popular male stars of 2013, also issued a statement saying "We're porn stars, not biologists in a lab. We're here to fuck, not remember science words."

Sprayberry is currently working on a new film, "The Burning Bush," which she promises "will have lots of fucking. Hard, fast fucking." The film is set for a late 2014 release.

Dear Brother Mclaidalot,

I love my neighbor. I really do. She's very nice and friendly, and she has a lovely voice. Unfortunately, the only time I hear her voice is when she is having loud sex with her boyfriend next door. This occurs every Friday and Saturday night, without fail. I appreciate that she enjoys expressing her love for her boyfriend, and even for God, so vocally, but it is an inconvenience to me when I want to stay home on the weekends and do work. How should I approach this situation?

Sincerely,
Noisy in Nashville

Dear Noisy,

First, I must remind you of God's greatest commandment: "Love thy neighbor as thyself." Therein, I do believe, lies the solution to your problem. My daughter, you may indeed comment on her noise to your neighbor, but an even more righteous act would be to join your neighbor in her praise of her partner. Simply knock on her door and ask her if you may join her and her boyfriend in their times of intimacy. If they are truly your brother and sister in the Lord, they will share their incredible love with you. You may all raise your voices in praise.

Based on my own personal experience, you will experience great joy from this occurrence. You may in fact desire to find more people to join you in this communal love. Also based on personal experience, your own church community will be an excellent place to search for other loving people. If you are truly desiring of more members, I am always willing to personally assist my siblings in Christ.

Yours in Christ,
Brother Mclaidalot

AROUND the loop ?

What's the worst thing you've ever done?

Newt Gingrich

"I divorced my wife when she had cancer."

O.J. Simpson

"Bought the wrong size glove."

Quizno's Employee

"Every sandwich I've ever made has been worse than the previous one, so the most recent sandwich I made."

Chancellor Zeppos

"I once strangled a senior citizen in a bathroom at the Denver International Airport."

U.S. Government

"The entire Andrew Jackson Administration."

Michael Vick

"I watched 'All Dogs Go to Heaven' with my kids the other day."

Rob Ford

"You'll need a warrant for that."

Jimmy Hoffa

"I spent a weekend with Rob Ford."

SPORTS

Alarming Trend of FreeB.A.S.E. Jumping Gaining Popularity in United States

By: Michael Hogue
Drug Dude

Jumping—a method of getting high by smoking cocaine and then diving from a fixed object while using a parachute to break your fall—have increased rapidly across the nation, according to a report released Tuesday by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

Dr. Karl Boenish, M.D., Ph.D, a pioneering addiction researcher and lead author of the report, describes the “highly addictive” practice, in which cocaine is dissolved in a heated solvent such as ether and the purified, non-salt substance is burned in order to inhale its smoke. The user then jumps from a building, antenna, span (bridge), or earth (cliff) and deploys a parachute to land safely.

Last week, local news sources in Florida, New York, Washington State, Arizona, and California reported a total of 13 instances of FreeB.A.S.E. Jumping, 10 of which resulted in injury and one in death. “While people use FreeB.A.S.E. Jumping to experience feelings of energy, excitement, and exhilaration, the side effects of the practice can be devastating,” writes Boenish. According to the report, FreeB.A.S.E. Jumping can cause “Irritability, paranoia, restlessness, heart attack, stroke, impaired ejaculation, blunt force trauma, broken bones, and death.”

Drs. Kenneth Singleman and Hannah Swan, Los Angeles-based psychiatrists who specialize in treating FreeB.A.S.E. Jumping addiction, explain that the practice exposes users to danger at almost every stage of the process. “First of all, cocaine possession is illegal, and most U.S. cities and all national parks have banned B.A.S.E. Jumping. Second of all, the preparation of freebase cocaine requires a heating source and chemical solvents, both of which can damage the skin. Third of all, cocaine use increases the heart rate and blood pressure while constricting your body’s blood vessels, which can cause heart attacks and strokes. Fourth of all, B.A.S.E. Jumps occur from relatively low heights, which leads to a slew of hazards. You have less aerodynamic control due to lower velocity, you risk deploying your parachute too soon and becoming tangled or turned around, and you could deploy your parachute too late and hit the ground with too much velocity, resulting in bodily injury or death. Moreover, with your mind racing from the cocaine, it is substantially more difficult to jump from the surface with the correct technique or to pull your ripcord at precisely the right time.”

A recreational FreeB.A.S.E.-er reaches for his pipe moments after jumping.

Singleman and Swan claim that “FreeB.A.S.E. Jumping may very well be the single most dangerous activity you could expose your body to.”

Despite high rates of injury and mortality, FreeB.A.S.E. Jumping is on the rise, according to Boenish and his team at the CDC. Their study found that about 0.0001784 percent of adults in the United States have “Tried FreeB.A.S.E. Jumping within the past year,” with this number only expected to increase for the foreseeable future.

The practice not only appeals to people’s desire for excitement, it offers users a social outlet, according to Dr. Karen Hollekim, a psychiatrist and Rick Sylvester Professor of Schedule II Drugs and Extreme Sports at New York University’s Langone Medical Center. “The addictive nature of FreeB.A.S.E. Jumping results from three main chemical effects on the individual. Most people are aware that using cocaine and jumping from high altitudes both create a chemical ‘high.’ But when groups of people go FreeB.A.S.E. Jumping together, they experience a socially rewarding activity that causes the release of dopamine, which will excite their brain cells. When these three waves of chemicals are combined, the activity becomes impossibly addictive.”

Some experts, however, believe that FreeB.A.S.E. Jumping should be legalized to improve the activity’s safety. Oliver Quinn, a FreeB.A.S.E. Jumping legalization activist, contributed an essay to the New England Journal of Medicine last month arguing that “Legalization will lead to regulation and oversight, which will allow departments of health across the country to ensure that consenting adults participate in this activity in a thrilling, yet safe manner.”

Olympic Luger Ill-Prepared for Intensity of Sport

By: James Cross
Ice Investigator

Last week during Russian luger Viktor Lungk’s first run of the 2014 Winter Olympics, it became clear this was the first time he had lugged on ice.

“I admit I didn’t think this one through,” Lungk commented the next morning. “My training primarily utilized interactive computer programs and wind tunnels. I was told there was only a marginal difference between simulation and an actual race.”

Clark Campbell, luge expert and author of the best selling novel ‘Luge: As Russian as Borscht,’ tweeted his analysis this past Monday. “He had an excellent push at the start but you can see at about thirty seconds into his run he hadn’t anticipated what an actual race would be like.”

A microphone on the side of the track that usually picks up the whoosh of the racers’ passing sleds also picked up faint noises of Lungk cursing, calling for his mother, and repeatedly saying “too fast.”

Bystanders reported there did not appear to be anything unusual with Lungk during his race. One fan said, “When he finished he was kissing and hugging the ground but at the time I just thought it was because he loved his country.”

Lungk’s coach, former luge gold medalist Franz Leapschpeal, released a comment to the press to challenge critics that claimed Gent was not sufficiently trained. “I can assure you,” Leapschpeal announced, “Lungk’s performance had nothing to do with a lack of training or determination. He did reveal to me last week he had a fear of roller coasters but at the time I did not put two and two together. We will work to prevent Lungk’s minor hiccup occurring in subsequent races.”

The Slant asked Lungk if he had advice for young lugers who hope to one day compete in the Olympics. He commented, “Visit a ski resort two to three days before your first race.”

“Our father, who art in heaven, hallowed it be thy shit shit shit where’s the break on this thing.”

“FUCK! EVERY. SINGLE. DAY.”

recession.”

When told that Shorting was in fact trying to work against Pac Sun and the explicit material on its merchandise, Bluffs appeared surprised. “If she didn’t like Pac Sun, why would she purchase $10,600 worth of t-shirts?” he asked.

In consideration of the now thousands of shirts purchased by Shorting, many observers of the movement were curious as to what was being done with the shirts. Just after Valentine’s Day, The Slant decided to contact the Shorting family and discern what had happened to the shirts.

“When we first took the shirts home, we stuffed them at the back of her closet, and I thought that would be the end of it,” Grace Shorting said in a telephone interview. “We had so many, I had no clue what we would do with them.

Soon they didn’t fit in the closet any more, and she put them in my closet but forbade me from wearing them.”

Grace went on to reveal that some of the shirts went missing from the piles, and she assumed it was because her mother had finally decided to throw them away. She soon discovered that was not the case. “After a while, I started to notice that Mom was wearing the shirts under her clothes when she was going out on dates with guys. Then, it wasn’t just under but as her main clothing. Before I knew it, she was wearing them all the time. It’s like she’s a different person.”

Grace was audibly distraught, so The Slant attempted to find Tania Shorting and ascertain her side of the story. When approached for comment, Tania Shorting was found smoking a joint near the local skate park. She was wearing large Doc Martins ankle boots, a Pac Sun shirt with a burlesque dancer on the front, high-waisted jeans, and her hair in a scrunchie.

“I just really felt liberated by having provocatively dressed women on my chest, you know?” Tania told The Slant. “I feel so sensual, so utterly free. It reminds me of my time at Berkeley back in the sixties...not that I was a student back then, but still.”

As of press time, Grace Shorting had begun looking for replacement maternal figures, and Tania Shorting stated she was trying to figure out “how to light a bong and buy legal weed.”

I can’t remember the last time anyone clicked on me. I talk, but no one ever talks back. Even after I tap on the screen, users still leave me be. I like to make jokes too, you know. What did the zombie say to the werewolf? I’m dead tired. Get it? I like that joke.

Pac Sun Receives Unexpected Support From Local Mother

By: Mary Scott
Retail Raconteur

Pac Sun has long been popular with the eighteen and under age demographic, but recently it has been making its way into the “mom market” in some very surprising ways. Local Nashville mother Tania Shorting is one of the main women responsible for this drastic change, and the story of how she came to be a supporter of the Pac Sun brand begins with what she refers to as “rage.”

Single mother Shorting first entered Pac Sun in autumn of 2013 with her daughter Grace. According to sources close to the family, the Shortings were shopping for Hanukkah gifts for distant relatives. Upon entering the store, witnesses state that Grace went directly to the swimsuit and shoes section, and Shorting went to stand directly in front of the wall of t-shirts. Bystanders stated that Shorting appeared to be contemplating something as she stood.

“She just kinda stood there,” Seth Erikson, a frequent patron of Pac Sun who witnessed the incident, said. “Just kinda looking at the shirts with curse words and naked girls on them. She had this weird look on her face. I even tapped her on the shoulder – she didn’t move for five minutes. Then, out of nowhere, she got pissed.”

“She just went apeshit,” Robert Plant, head cashier of Pac Sun, said. “Like, she started flipping tables. It went on for like, ten minutes. It was scary.” Finally, in order to contain what she claimed was “explicit material that was completely inappropriate for anyone to wear,” Shorting purchased all of the explicit shirts in every size available in the store.

“I can’t say we’ve had that reaction before,” Plant said. “Usually when people are mad in Pac Sun, they start burning stuff or writing grunge poetry. Not buying things.”

Since the story broke in early December, The Slant has been tracking the progress of Shorting’s apparent crusade against Pac Sun; as of the end of January, Pac Sun storefronts and outlets in the greater Nashville area reported extensive shirt purchases charged to Shorting’s debit card. Pac Sun marketing representatives took notice.

“We actually sent her a personal letter thanking her for her patronage,” Steve Bluffs, head representative for the Nashville area, said. “It’s the best business we’ve done in years, especially since the Artist’s rendition of Tania Shorting two months from now.

TOP TEN THINGS PEOPLE SAY BUT DON'T ACTUALLY MEAN

- 10 "This is the absolute worst."
- 9 "It's cool, I have a ton of black friends."
- 8 "Yes, I did the reading for today."
- 7 "Eat the last mozzarella stick, I don't care."
- 6 "Really, [boyfriend], I'm fine."
- 5 "I don't like to brag, but..."
- 4 "I literally ____."
- 3 "Drive to the next rest stop, I can hold it a little longer."
- 2 "I love you."
- 1 "I love you, Dad."

JOINTHESLANT

By: Sophie Mesghina and Almaz To

Attractive. Humorous. Perfumed. Fruity. Sainly. Well-dressed. Pickled. Voluptuous. Pan-fried. Hipster. Theoretical. Chewy. Moist. Epic. Clitoral. Fashionable. Bow-legged. Sanitary. Shrimpy. Forgetful. Miguel. Orange. Gullible. Probable. Fully-spread. Al Dente. Hump-backed. Scrumptious. Apple-bottomed. Occasional. Pan-fried. Fuckable. Nauseating. Sexy. Closed-toed. LEED-certified. Thirsty. Distilled. Zach. Effervescent. Post hoc. Problematic. Polyunsaturated. Episcopalian. Long. Subtle. High. Thick. Single-celled. Intoxicating. Spongy. Penile. Geriatric. Potential. Bearded. Aggressive. Worldly. Concise. Verbose. Static. Up-and-coming. Andre. Mop. Pan-fried. Monique'u'a. Flaming. Heteronormative. Soupy. Shirtless. Isomeric. Wized. OK. Circular. Clingy. Albino. Post-racial. African-American. Androgynous. Pan-fried. Penetrating. Moldy. Causal. Casual. Catalytic. Poopy. Electronic. Nonviolent. Obsolete. Evidence-based. Swole. Family-friendly. Salty. Prokaryotic. Pan-fried. Trying. Haywire. Shaved. Conciliatory. Translucent. Saved. Gelatinous. Carbon-based. Similar. Unaware. Marinated. Bilingual. Hydrogenated. Orgasmic. Shiny. Crazy. Meta. Shrouded. Intravenous. Lesbian. Pan-fried. Hawaiian. Socratic. Obtuse. Shitty. Trashy. Burning. Fucking. Adam. Cardiovascular. Diverse. Caucasian. Indirect. Second. Obese. Loving. Carcinogenic. Pan-fried. Tangential. Michelle. Psychopathic. Oily. Contradictory. Fermented. Ratchet. Record-breaking. Pan-fried. Vaginal. Indentured.

- Do any or all of the above qualities apply to you?
- Have you ever seriously considered any of these?
- Have you or a loved one ever read The Slant?
- Did you read through the whole list?

Congratulations, if you checked any of the above, you are mentally unstable!

The Slant cares about the well-being of each and every organism. Meet us in Sarratt 130 at 9:00 PM on Wednesdays and we'll get you the help you deserve. Hablamos Espanol.

I will find you and I will kill you and you won't see it coming because I'm a fucking paperclip.

Elton John, Kanye West, Jack White, Lionel Richie, Vampire Weekend, The Avett Brothers, Phoenix, Skrillex, Arctic Monkeys, Frank Ocean, The Flaming Lips, Nick Cave & The Bad Seeds, Kaskade, Damon Albarn, Neutral Milk Hotel, Wiz Khalifa, SuperJam with Skrillex & Friends, SuperJam, The Bluegrass Situation, Disclosure, Cut Copy, The Head and the Heart, Zedd, Ms. Lauryn Hill, Funkiest Dancer, Chromeo, Broken Bells, Tedeschi Trucks Band, James Blake, Bobby Womack, Umphrey's McGee, Ice Cube, Ben Howard, Slightly Stoopid, Fitz and The Tantrums, Cake, Janelle Monáe, Grouplove, Amos Lee, CHVRCHES, Cage The Elephant, Die Antwoord, Andrew Bird & the Hands of Glory, Mastodon, Capital Cities, Jake Bugg, Chance The Rapper, Dr. Dog, Yonder Mountain String Band, John Butler Trio, Little, Dragon, City and Colour, The Glitch Mob, The Naked and Famous, Taran Killam, Phosphorescent, Drive-By Truckers, Washed Out, Danny Brown, Warpaint, Sam Smith, A$AP Ferg, Darkside, Seasick Steve, Shovels & Rope, Lucero, Carolina Chocolate Drops, The Wood Brothers, The Master Musicians of Jajouka led by Bachir Attar, with special guests Billy Martin, Marc Ribot, DJ Logic and Shazad Ismaily, Pusha T, Meshuggah, Poliça, DakhaBrakha, Goat, ZZ Ward, Seun Kuti, Blackberry Smoke, MS MR, Hannibal Buress, First Aid Kit, Rudimental, A Tribe, Called Red, Omar Souleyman, The Bouncing Souls, Greensky Bluegrass, Ty Segall, Sarah Jarosz, Vintage Trouble, Okkervil River, White Denim, Jonathan Wilson, Robert DeLong, Cloud Nothings, Typhoon, Thao & The Get Down Stay, Down, Valerie June, King Khan & The Shrines, Cherub, BANKS, Break Science, The Black Lillies, Real Estate, The Lone Bellow, Caveman, Big Sam's Funky Nation, Jon Batiste, La Santa Cecilia, Classixx, Allah-Las, Cass McCombs, Vance Joy, Haerts, J. Roddy Walston & The Business, Those Darlins, Deafheaven, Lake Street Dive, St. Paul & The Broken Bones, The Wild Feathers, The Preatures, Blank Range

Excited to Perform at Bonaroo 2014

By: Dan King
Music Magician

Music fans around the country were excited to hear that Elton John, Kanye West, Jack White, Lionel Richie, Vampire Weekend, The Avett Brothers, Phoenix, Skrillex, Arctic Monkeys, Frank Ocean, The Flaming Lips, Nick Cave & The Bad Seeds, Kaskade, Damon Albarn, Neutral Milk Hotel, Wiz Khalifa, SuperJam with Skrillex & Friends, SuperJam, The Bluegrass Situation, Disclosure, Cut Copy, The Head and the Heart, Zedd, Ms. Lauryn Hill, Funkiest Dancer, Chromeo, Broken Bells, Tedeschi Trucks Band, James Blake, Bobby Womack, Umphrey's McGee, Ice Cube, Ben Howard, Slightly Stoopid, Fitz and The Tantrums, Cake, Janelle Monáe, Grouplove, Amos Lee, CHVRCHES, Cage The Elephant, Die Antwoord Andrew Bird & the Hands of Glory, Mastodon, Capital Cities, Jake Bugg, Chance The Rapper, Dr. Dog, Yonder Mountain String Band, John Butler Trio, Little, Dragon, City and Colour, The Glitch Mob, The Naked and Famous, Taran Killam, Phosphorescent, Drive-By Truckers, Washed Out, Danny Brown, Warpaint, Sam Smith, A$AP Ferg, Darkside, Seasick Steve, Shovels & Rope, Lucero, Carolina Chocolate Drops, The Wood Brothers, The Master Musicians of Jajouka led by Bachir Attar, with special guests Billy Martin, Marc Ribot, DJ Logic and Shazad Ismaily, Pusha T, Meshuggah, Poliça, DakhaBrakha, Goat, ZZ Ward, Seun Kuti, Blackberry Smoke, MS MR, Hannibal Buress, First Aid Kit, Rudimental, A Tribe, Called Red, Omar Souleyman, The Bouncing Souls, Greensky Bluegrass, Ty Segall, Sarah Jarosz, Vintage Trouble, Okkervil River, White Denim, Jonathan Wilson, Robert DeLong, Cloud Nothings, Typhoon, Thao & The Get Down Stay, Down, Valerie June, King Khan & The Shrines, Cherub, BANKS, Break Science, The Black Lillies, Real Estate, The Lone Bellow, Caveman, Big Sam's Funky Nation, Jon Batiste, La Santa Cecilia, Classixx, Allah-Las, Cass McCombs, Vance Joy, Haerts, J. Roddy Walston & The Business, Those Darlins, Deafheaven, Lake Street Dive, St. Paul & The Broken Bones, The Wild Feathers, The Preatures, and Blank Range would be performing at Bonaroo this summer. The Slant talked to Tyra Skanks, an A&S sophomore, who told us "I'm really excited about the concert. I was so psyched to hear that Elton John, Kanye West, Jack White, Lionel Richie, Vampire Weekend, The Avett Brothers, Phoenix, Skrillex, Arctic Monkeys, Frank Ocean, The Flaming Lips, Nick Cave & The Bad Seeds, Kaskade, Damon Albarn, Neutral Milk Hotel, Wiz Khalifa, SuperJam with Skrillex & Friends, SuperJam, The Bluegrass Situation, Disclosure, Cut Copy, The Head and the Heart, Zedd, Ms. Lauryn Hill, Funkiest Dancer, Chromeo, Broken Bells, Tedeschi Trucks Band, James Blake, Bobby Womack, Umphrey's McGee, Ice Cube, Ben Howard, Slightly Stoopid, Fitz and The Tantrums, Cake, Janelle Monáe, Grouplove, Amos Lee, CHVRCHES, Cage The Elephant, Die Antwoord, Andrew Bird & the Hands of Glory, Mastodon, Capital Cities, Jake Bugg, Chance The Rapper, Dr. Dog, Yonder Mountain String Band, John Butler Trio, Little, Dragon, City and Colour, The Glitch Mob, The Naked and Famous, Taran Killam, Phosphorescent, Drive-By Truckers, Washed Out, Danny Brown, Warpaint, Sam Smith, A$AP Ferg, Darkside, Seasick Steve, Shovels & Rope, Lucero, Carolina Chocolate Drops, The Wood Brothers, The Master Musicians of Jajouka led by Bachir Attar, with special guests Billy Martin, Marc Ribot, DJ Logic and Shazad Ismaily, Pusha T, Meshuggah, Poliça, DakhaBrakha, Goat, ZZ Ward, Seun Kuti, Blackberry Smoke, MS MR, Hannibal Buress, First Aid Kit, Rudimental, A Tribe, Called Red, Omar Souleyman, The Bouncing Souls, Greensky Bluegrass, Ty Segall, Sarah Jarosz, Vintage Trouble, Okkervil River, White Denim, Jonathan Wilson, Robert DeLong, Cloud Nothings, Typhoon, Thao & The Get Down Stay, Down, Valerie June, King Khan & The Shrines, Cherub, BANKS, Break Science, The Black Lillies, Real Estate, The Lone Bellow, Caveman, Big Sam's Funky Nation, Jon Batiste, La Santa Cecilia, Classixx, Allah-Las, Cass McCombs, Vance Joy, Haerts, J. Roddy Walston & The Business, Those Darlins, Deafheaven, Lake Street Dive, St. Paul & The Broken Bones, The Wild Feathers, The Preatures, and Blank Range would be playing. I can't wait to get out there."

A stage similar to the one where Elton John, Kanye West, Jack White, Lionel Richie, Vampire Weekend, The Avett Brothers (...) The Wild Feathers, The Preatures, and Blank Range will be performing at Bonaroo this summer.